

Welcome To Sammy's Palm Oil Kid's Club!

Hi

I am so excited to welcome you to Sammy's Palm Oil Kid's Club! I am a diurnal three-toed sloth. I can be spotted hiking through the Ecuadorian cloud forest. You'll usually find me hanging motionless from tree limbs or progressing at a painfully slow speed along a branch toward a particularly succulent bunch of leaves, my primary food source. Here's a picture of me with my favorite food!

From high up the trees, in the farms of Palm Done Right growers, I can perfectly spot what they are doing every day. I am so happy that they stopped using chemicals in their farmers. This way my leaves and water sources are protected and clean and I can live and breath happily. I am also happy that they understand the importance of keeping our forests and that they go to great lengths to conserve the trees that we depend upon.

I am so excited you've decided to join the kid's club! I'll write you letters every few months - you'd be surprised how long it takes to write a letter when you're a sloth - and my friends at Palm Done Right created some worksheets for you to learn all about Ecuador, palm oil, and ME!

I heard them say something about some kids winning a stuffed Sammy the Sloth so you should probably check that out. They showed me a picture of the sloth stuffed animal, and I really think he looks like me! Next time you use peanut butter or eat crackers, think of me ☺ Did you know that the food you eat affects wildlife like me? Your good choices help to protect my home. It's called a habitat! All of this writing has made me pretty sleepy, so I'm going to go take a nap and then have some of my favorite food.

Have a relaxing day,
Sammy the Sloth
